HENRY ALDRICH, D.D.

Dean of Christ-Church, and Vice-Chancellor of the University of OXFORD.

SIR,

THIS is the Greatest Thing that I can do, for the Excellent Musick, Poetry, and Piety of these Papers; it has been my Care indeed to save them from Oblivion, but they are Indebted to me now much more, for the Defence and Ornament of Your Name.

In Addresses of this kind, Men are usually so far from suiting the Subject of their Treatises to the Qualifications of the Persons they Apply to, that we may shortly expect to see Musick Dedicated to the Deaf, as well as Poetry to Aldermen, and Prayer-Books to Atheists; and tho' generally it is a difficult Matter to find a Worthy Patron for any One of these Excellencies, yet we happily find them all lodg'd in your self. It has indeed been very seldom known since the Royal Prophet's Time, that any Single Man has been thus Qualified, but they All meet so Eminently in You, 'not to mention those other great Advantages, which distinguish You from the rest of the World) that had it been possible for me to have been at a Loss to whom I should have Addressed my self, Thousands would have named You in the same Instant.

Pardon me then, Sir, if I presume to beg Your Protection for these Papers, 'tis the utmost of my Fidelity and Love to my Charge; and I shall now have the Glory of Providing better for other Men's Works, than ever the Fondest Author could do for his Own. I am,

SIR,

Your most humble Servant,

a

H. P.

To Dr. John Blow, and Mr. Henry Purcell, upon the First and Second
Books of HARMONIA SACRA.

WHEN Sacred Numbers, and Immortal Lays,
Joyn'd to Record the Great Almighty's Praise,
Indulgent Heav'n the Poet did inspire
With Lofly Song to fill the Tuneful Lyre.

Thus when of Old, from Egypt's fruitful Land
God brought forth Moses by a mighty Hand,
His joyful Tongue with untaught Numbers flow'd,
Th' unusual Harmony its Author show'd.

The Sea divided as he pass'd along,
Retreating back at his Triumphant Song:

When David's Hand upon his Harp was found,
Heav'n soon Repenting, listen'd to the Sound.

And struggling Nature chang'd her wonted Course,
Unable to resist his Musick's Sacred Force.

His Prince's Rage this taught him to Controul,
And Tune the Discords of his Troubled Soul.

Not Fabled Orpheus, or Amphion's Verse,
Can such amazing Prodigies rehearse.

We here the Mystic Art may learn to unfold,
And feel the Wonders which we there are told.

No Cloudy Passions can our Breasts invade,
When Sacred Harmony dispels the Shade.

Here sprightly Numbers raise our heighten'd Zeal,
And Charming Sounds Seraphic Joys reveal.

Each Skilful Hand and Tongue at once conspire
With Strings and Voice to make a Tuneful Choir:

Whilst mighty Joys the Ravish'd Senses wound,
And the Soul labours with th' Inspiring Sound.

Whither aloft it Tow'rs Isaiah's Flight,
Wing'd by Devotion to the greatest Height;

Or Mourning with the Royal Prophet lies,
And weeps Jerusalem's just Miseries;

Or loves sweet Sion's beauteous Joys to tell,
"Where God himself chiefly delights to dwell;

Such lofty Measures, Notes so sweet, so strong,
Exalt the Numbers, and improve the Song.

Hail mighty Pair! Of Jubal's Sacred Art,
The greatest Glory! —————

Not skilful Asaph understood so well,
And Heman vainly labour'd to Excel.

Where e'er the Gospel's Sacred Page is sung,
Where e'er great David's Tuneful Harp is rung,

Each sacred Verse shall your Just Glories raise,
Each dancing String shall Echo forth your Praise.

The Church as yet could never boast but Two
Of all the Tuneful Race, from Jubal down to You.

Dr. John Blow,
and Mr. Henry Purcell.

H. SACHEVERELL, of Magd. Coll. Oxon.

A TABLE of the
To his unknown Friend, Mr. Henry Purcell, upon his Excellent Compositions in the First and Second Books of HARMONIA SACRA.

LONG had dark Ignorance our Isle o'erspread,
Our Musick and our Poetry lay dead:
But the dull Malice of a Barb'rous Age,
Fell most severe on David's Sacred Page;
To wound his Sense, and quench his Heav'n-born
Three dull Translators lewdly did conspire.
In holy Dogg'rel, and low-chiming Prose;
The King and Poet they at once Depose.
Vainly he did th' unrighteous Change bemoan,
And languish'd in vile Numbers not his own:
Nor stop'd his Usage here—
For what escap'd in Wisdom's ancient Rhimes,
Was murder'd o'er and o'er by the Composers Chimes.
What Praises, Purcell, to thy Skill are due;
Who hast to Judah's Monarch been so True?
By thee he moves our Hearts, by thee he Reigns,
By thee shakes off his old Inglorious Chains,
And sees new Honours done to his Immortal (Strains.)

Not Italy, the Mother of each Art,
Did e'er a Juster, Happier Son impart.
In thy Performance we with Wonder find Bassani's Genius to Corelli's joyn'd.
Sweetness combin'd with Majesty, prepares
To raise Devotion with inspiring Airs.
Thus I unknown my Gratitude express,
And conscious Gratitude could pay no less.
This Tribute from each British Muse is due,
Our whole Poetic Tribe's oblig'd to you.
For where the Author's Scanty Words have fail'd,
Your happier Graces, Purcell, have prevail'd.
And surely none but you with equal Ease
Could ad to David, and make Durfy please.

T. B.

To my Worthy Friend Mr. H. P. upon his HARMONIA SACRA.

MUSICK and Verse have been abus'd too long,
Idly to furnish out some Wanton Song;
To varnish Vice, to make loose Folly shine,
And gild the vain Delights of Love, or Wine:
Both Heav'nly-born, but both constrain'd to fall
So far below their great Original,
The Erring World, not knowing how to trace
Thro' Vile Employments their Celestial Race,
Suppos'd their Birth was, as their Office, Base.
Rescu'd by you, they have again put on
Those Glorious Rays with which at first they shone,
Assert their Native Honour; and excite,
With awful Pleasure, Rev'rence and, Delight:

Here no loud Rant, no wild ungovern'd Strain,
Invokes plump Bacchus, and his sordid Train;
Here no fond Couplet kindles am'rous Fires,
No melting Note gives Birth to loose Desires:
Each Air, each Line, which in this Work appear,
Angels may fitly Sing, and Saints may hear.
Go on, my Friend; let Sacred Musick free
From Scandal, and more Sacred Poetry:
Publish'd by You, with double Grace they shine,
Lovely and Grave, Harmonious and Divine.

A DIVINE HYMN.

Words by Dr. William Fuller, formerly Lord Bishop of Lincoln. Set by Mr. Henry Purcell.

Ord, what is Man, loft Man, that thou should'st be so mindful of him!

Lord, what is Man, loft Man, that thou should'st be so mind-ful of him!

that the Son of God forfook his Glory, his A-bode, to become a poor tormented Man! Lord, what is Man, loft, loft Man, that thou should'st

Woe, the migh-ty weight of Woe? Nor yet, a-las! dost thou alone, beneath the bit-ter Anguish Groan, but ev'n to others too thou Mis'ries dost create. With Pangs and Throws thou in-to the Wor-ld dost come, the hea-vy Curse, and

But-then of thy Mo-ther's Womb; the Dawn of Life, its part of Torments

Shares, 'tis Usher'd in with Cries, and all, and all be-dew'd with Tears.

How short is Life! we scarcely draw our Breath, but we must frait fur-ren-der't up to Death; Time on its Wings our Substance does convey, unknown to us it steals us from our selves a-way. To this great spoiler. Time a spee—dy Prey we

This system contains five staves of music. The first staff is a soprano line with a treble clef and a key signature of one sharp (F#). The subsequent four staves are for other voices, each with its own clef and key signature. The lyrics 'Hal-le-lu-jah' are written below each staff, with hyphens indicating the syllables are spread across multiple notes.
